

GET YOUR MEXICAN AUTO INSURANCE ONLINE WWW.MEXBOUND.COM

Driving from Phoenix to San Carlos, Mexico

Take the I-10 east to Tucson, Arizona. From Tucson, you want to head south on Interstate 19 to Nogales, Arizona. Once you cross into Nogales, Mexico, you want to continue south on Highway 15. You will pass by several small towns. Once you get to Hermosillo you see signs for Guaymas. The Guaymas airport is 10 minutes from San Carlos. You will see the San Carlos sign as you get closer to Guaymas. From Phoenix, it is approximately a 7 hour drive.

Driving from Tucson to San Carlos, Mexico

From Tucson, you want to head south on Interstate 19 to Nogales, Arizona. Once you cross into Nogales, Mexico, continue south on Highway 15. You will pass by several small towns. Once you get to Hermosillo you see signs for Guaymas. The Guaymas airport is 10 minutes from San Carlos. You will see the San Carlos sign as you get closer to Guaymas. From Tucson it is approximately a 5 hour drive.

Driving to San Carlos from Puerto Penasco - Rocky Point

From Rocky Point, you want to take the road to Caborca, which starts on Mexico Highway #3, then takes you to Mexico Highway #4, which leads to Caborca. Once in Caborca, continue south east to Santa Ana. From Santa Ana, you want to head south on Mexico Highway #15. You will pass through Hermosillo next as you continue south to San Carlos. Once you get to Hermosillo you see signs for Guaymas. The Guaymas airport is 10 minutes from San Carlos. You will see the San Carlos sign as you get closer to Guaymas. From Rocky Point, Puerto Penasco, Mexico, it is approximately a 6 hour drive.

Driving to San Carlos from San Diego and Los Angeles

From Los Angeles, California, take the I-10 East freeway and then follow the directions from Phoenix to San Carlos.
 From The San Diego area, follow I-8 East to the I-10 freeway, then follow the directions from Phoenix to San Carlos, Mexico.